With Great Power Comes Great Responsibility: Encouraging and Preparing Law Students to Work on Access to Justice Issues after Graduation

October 7, 2016, 2016 Midwest Regional Clinical Legal Education Conference

Panelists: Carolyn Frazier, Uzoamaka Nzelibe, Karen Daniel, Northwestern Pritzker School of Law; Stephanie Horten, Northwestern law alum

Session notes:

What do we mean by access to justice?

Our five areas of focus:

1. Expose students to systemic problems in the field

2. Encourage students to form relationships with clients, families, and communities

3. Help students recognize the power they possess as lawyers and their ability to impact others’ lives and effect real change

4. Inspire students by showcasing good examples of individuals and organizations doing this work

5. Find ways to point students in the direction of access to justice after graduation
